“ Germayine and I were in the boy scouts growing up. I observed Germayine operating at a higher level than us, the average teenager. Germayine never got into trouble and was always the one to leave the group before we got in trouble. Germayine was wise beyond his years and often would, help us grow up just by living the example of a young man with wisdom. I do remember Germayine’s love for music and singing, sometimes he would start a gospel song with us while hiking or camping and we would all get into it. On several occasions I pulled Germayine to the side and asked for his advice on decisions that I needed to make, with people, school, and just life in general, his advice was always calculated and practical. He never told me exactly what to do but would let me come to it on my own, which is the mark of a great listener. His spirit will live on forever and I will always remember his kindness, wisdom, and patience. You have my sympathies & prayers.
