“ I met Hurby (we called her Ace) when I was about 9 or 10 years old and lived in the Bronx. I called her Aunt Ace. She was sweet, kind and very friendly, and we became friends. She was only about 9 years older than me, and I grew to trust her with all of my little girl secrets, because she made me feel it was safe to talk to her. She was very different from my family and friends that I grew up with. She was from the West Coast and ate Dannon yogurt. I had never heard of yogurt, and I hated it when she gave me a taste. I remember spending countless afternoons in the apartment that she lived in with my Uncle Amos, and cousins Darren, Michelle and Elease. I watched her cooking (she was a really good cook), and as she cooked, she would give me advice about cooking, and life. I still remember some of her wise advice to this day. Rest in peace my friend.
