“ I met Ms Ruth Wilson in 2015 when her daughter Julie Wilson(who is my patient) brought her to me to establish a doctor-patient relationship with and we have been more like family ever since.

Ms Wilson, despite her advanced age even at that time, did not have many medical issues and this made her a very easy and delightful patient to take care of. She did not complain much and always had a bright smile and a positive attitude. She was an advocate for her own health and so did not wait to be told that she needed to exercise and eat a well balanced diet low in salt, fats and sugars - she was already doing that and was actually a vegetarian for many years before I met her.

She was also very compliant with her medications & visits but asked questions if she didn't understand what I was telling her to do. She was fiercely independent and fought to remain so till the very end. Julie helped to take excellent care of her and this contributed to my work being easy. She was friendly to all my staff and we will sorely miss her.

Rest in peace, Ms Wilson, in the bosom of your Maker till that Resurrection morn. My Condolences to all the family 🙏.

“ My aunt was a trailblazer who marched to her own drum! Growing up, I thought it was so cool to have a aunt living in New York running a successful business. It was so exciting to receive a box from her with the nicest outfits. She was a fighter. Fighting for and with those that she loved. I remember her being a fearless woman. A woman to be admired and emulated. You will be missed and will live on in the hearts of your loved ones.

*Love you always

“ My (Great) Aunt Ruth was a passionate woman! Now, her passion came out in many ways. I will always remember as a child meeting up at a family member’s house with all the Aunts and Uncles sitting around talking and playing cards. The memories that bubble up are when Aunt Ruth always had her special cup of orange juice that I couldn’t have a sip of and her punching my father in the chest for something he had said. All in all, this woman was something else and I’m happy to know that she’s with her family up in heaven.

I did not spend a lot of time with my cousin Ruth but I remember a couple of years before covid she and Jill were in DC. We went out to Proud Mary's on the water for dinner and some music. We had a night for me to remember because Ruth danced up a storm. She had such a great time and we enjoyed watching her in her element. All I can say as that from my standpoint she enjoyed life to the fullest. Ruth thanks for the memories.

“My great aunt had the slickest mouth. I just remember she always left the men speechless with her quick wit! She was strong but petite, sweet yet sassy and had the biggest heart. My favorite memories include her cursing out her brothers and my father, dropping it low and doing the bounce at dance functions. Aunt Ruth had such a nurturing spirit but she was always a fair disciplinarian. SHE DIDN'T PLAY! I love you and will miss you.

“ Every time I reconnect with my childhood friends, they always ask how my aunts and uncles are doing. Unfortunately, my sisters and I didn't grow up knowing our grandparents but our aunts and uncles were the people/elders that we always spoke about and filled that void in our lives. As a kid, I loved Aunt Ruth's sassiness (she was knucking and bucking before the anthems) and her ability to get all the men (including my father) in line. As an adult, I admired her tenacity, grit and ambition to get things done and use her voice to fight for what she believes in. She loved life, and her family more!

I know she's talking smack right now to Uncle George and John and gossiping with Aunt Emma.

I love you Aunt Ruth!
